

Copy Right Policy:

Copyright aims to protect the specific way the article has been written to describe an experiment and the results. We are committed to our authors to protect and defend their work and their reputation and takes allegations of infringement, plagiarism, ethic disputes and fraud very seriously.

The author of an article requires to transfer the copyright to the journal publisher in order to protect author's rights, and to coordinate permissions for reprints or other use.

The publisher has permission to edit, print, and distribute the article, but the author(s) retain the other rights themselves.

Authors Rights:

- Share their article in the same ways permitted to third parties under the relevant user license.
- Retain patent, trademark and other intellectual property rights (including research data).
- Proper attribution and credit for the published work.

Publisher's Rights:

For articles, published in our journal, IJBAP is granted the following rights:

- The exclusive right to publish and distribute an article, and to grant rights to others, for non-commercial and other purposes.
- For open access articles, we will apply the relevant third party user license where our journal publishes the article on its online platforms.
- We have the right to provide the article in all forms and media so the article can be used on the latest technology even after publication.
- The authority to enforce the rights in the article, on behalf of an author, against third parties, for example in the case of plagiarism or copyright infringement.

If an author becomes aware of a possible plagiarism, fraud or infringement we recommend contacting our publishing contact.

Note that certain open access user licenses may permit quite broad re-use that might otherwise be counted as copyright infringement.